AHRI president Stephen Yurek visits Regal Beloit

FORT WAYNE, IND. (January 21, 2010) –Regal Beloit was honored to host Stephen Yurek, president and CEO of the Air-Conditioning, Heating and Refrigeration Institute (AHRI) on a visit to the company's Fort Wayne facility on January 18, 2010.

Yurek shared the changing landscape of energy efficiency from both a political and product perspective with Regal Beloit thought leaders. They also discussed the Standards Agreement that was reached last year with several energy efficiency advocacy organizations, along with the positive impact it can bring.

AHRI continues to reach out internationally to industry bodies and companies like Regal Beloit that have an international presence, and provides feedback to the AHRI membership on trends throughout the world.

Regal Beloit supports the industry through its Genteq™, FASCO, Morrill and Marathon brands, and its association with members and customers.

Regal Beloit (NYSE:RBC) is a leading manufacturer of mechanical and electrical motion control and power generation products serving markets throughout the world.
